

Morgan Named Young Professional of the Year

Firm lands five Silver Link awards

Nicole Morgan, Rex's director of accounts and operations, was recently named Young Professional of the Year by the Public Relations Society of America, Tulsa Chapter.

PRSA-Tulsa annually recognizes a member who, while newer to the profession, exemplifies strong character, leadership skills and dedication to the goals of PRSA. The award is presented at the chapter's annual Silver Link awards, a banquet recognizing the most outstanding public relations and marketing communication efforts in the Tulsa area.

Along with being named Young Professional of the Year, Morgan received two Silver Link awards for her work on the Avansic brochure and Web site.

As a leader of the public relations firm's team, Morgan ensures quality work is delivered to the firm's clients. In addition, she has a knack for helping Rex's technology clients gain attention from their target audience. Her tactics have resulted in local and nationwide press for her clients and won numerous awards, including the 2007 Silver Link Best of Show.

Morgan is a graduate of Leadership Tulsa Class 39, communications chair for Heritage United Methodist Church and presidential appointee to the Tulsa Ballet board.

PRSA-Tulsa also awarded Rex five Silver Link awards:

Promotional brochure (company) — Nicole Morgan, "Avansic Digital Forensics Professionals Brochure."

Magazine (nonprofit) — Greg Rex and Tom Droege, "The University of Tulsa Homecoming Magazine."

Marketing/external communication — Nicole Morgan, "Avansic Web Site."

Community relations (nonprofit) — "PLANiTULSA: Citywide Workshop Campaign."

Media relations — Jami Fichte, "Universal American."